

Twin Flames: From Illusion to Freedom 12/4/11

As the encoding in your DNA to return to at-one-ment has been awakened, you have witnessed a world-wide sweep in consciousness towards unity, respect and reverence for all life, as well as a personal, powerful magnetic impulse to remember your at-one-ment with God and with your Twin Flame.

This impulse for conscious re-attunement with your Twin Flame may have been manifesting in many ways; a profound desire to partner with someone you believe to be the other half of your heart; projection of all your hopes and dreams on someone outside of yourself to complete you; a somewhat mystical encounter with your complementary energy from another domain; a strong connection in the dream state, etc. There are as many renditions of re-union consciousness as there are people. I hope the material I've been providing you has contributed to some deeper understanding about your Twin Flame energy and what you're going through.

The common denominator with these experiences is the Wake Up Call. The signal compels you to create experiences that ultimately fully awakens the memory that you could never be separate from either your Twin Flame or God. Teachers will appear in the form of lovers, family members, associates or friends, or even someone who provides you with material to ponder and absorb on your own. Your experiences and relationships will attempt to teach you gently, but if you don't "get" the lesson, the lessons become louder, and sometimes more difficult.

There are no coincidences. Many are stepping forward from fields of spirituality, science, politics, world-economics, energy, ecology, etc., to sound the clarion call of unity. Changes without are reflecting our changes within. To prepare for a harmonious planetary shift, we must first create the harmony inside.

Within is where you embrace your complementary Twin Flame energy in the form of the Divine Masculine and Divine Feminine, where you embrace both your light and your shadow, your heart and your head, your lower self (ego) and your higher self. All these represent aspects of the Whole.

This call for unity is not a call to lose yourself or your individual identity either to another or a group. Rather, it is a reminder that you can step into absolute sovereignty and freedom, responsibly creating as you were always intended to; as a hologram of God. And, as you are both an individualized expression of God as well as an integral aspect of God, you must know that everything you create affects not only you, but the whole. Your every thought, feeling, word, and deed, affects the whole picture.

The energy is intensifying on the planet, and 2012 will be like a roller-coaster ride for most. It is literally pushing every person, condition, place and thing on which we hold judgement to the surface to be loved free. If accepted in the right consciousness and without fear, these challenges will help you eliminate the deep seated terror associated with your perceived separation from God, All Life, and your Twin Flame; the core issues behind all mis-creation.

Meet these challenges head on with the invulnerable heart of God that you are. Don't engage in the fear or re-live the old patterning. Simply enfold each person and situation with the love you receive and magnify from within your Twin Flame heart field.* Literally re-attune the core pattern of the immaculate concept within each and every electron. See, hear, feel and give only from the heart field. This is the righteousness (right-use-ness) of the Love of God. And, do not give the illusion any power, for where your attention is, is what you become.

Illusion breeds fear, which contracts your heart, incorrectly encouraging you to believe you are controlled from without. Such a thought/feeling induces a sense of powerlessness. Nothing could be further from the truth, for you are the very heart of God.
